

What does it mean to be human?
Perhaps only the animals can know?

NATURE IN LEGEND AND STORY

Through the assistance of animals (and plants), we explore such questions in Nature in Legend and Story (NILAS), a non-profit, educational organization devoted to understanding the natural world through the activities known as "humanities." These include the promotion of scholarship, the hosting of an annual conference, the sponsorship of storytelling events and much more.

NILAS also has "totem groups" devoted to studying the lore and cultural representation of various animals and plants including: "rodents," "apples," "cockroaches and other creepy crawlers," and "chickens" (We expect several more to be added soon).

Basic membership is $25/year, $15 for students and seniors (ASLE members may deduct $5), for which you receive our newsletter, announcements and an opportunity to exchange ideas within a growing community.

Dues and inquiries may be sent to: Boria Sax, Ph.D., President/ 25 Franklin Avenue, 2F/ White Plains, NY 10601.
